DTH 4-17-70

Site's Use Mystery After Sale

By JULIAN BISHOP
Staff Writer

A Nashville, Tenn., "Kennedy collector" has purchased the famed Texas Book Depository for $650,000 but says he has no plans to transform it into a shrine honoring the late President John F. Kennedy.

"It should be made into a shrine for Kennedy," said high-bidder Aubrey Mayhew who described himself as a "high salaried executive" with Certron Plastic Co. of California and Nashville. "But I won't do it. I have no intention to build it into a shrine. I am a business executive and don't have the time."

It took less than 30 minutes Thursday night at the NorthPark Inn Ballroom to auction off the old structure where the Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald hid to fire the shots that killed President Kennedy.

Mayhew said he was pur-

See TRAGEDY on Page 29